Darkest Part

Red

You dragged the depths of my soul until you found it
A darkened room locked away, I let you inYou looked inside then you turned away
My makeshift savior, He left me right here in my chainsBut still I whisper
(I'm calling out)
Still I call youI never wanted you to see
The darkest part of me
I knew you'd run away
I waited, but you never came
So afraid to be alone
I tried to let you go
Still I find you
Lost inside the darkest part of meIt's my descent, a familiar pain
Of watching all I believed fade away
Of traitors and fools
Of beggars and thieves
Which mask will you choose
What is underneath
I never wanted you to see
The darkest part of me
I knew you'd run away
I waited, but you never came
So afraid to be alone
I tried to let you go
Still I find you
Lost inside the darkest part of meAm I the black stain of your perfect life
Am I the darkness that you need to hideIt covers you
It spills over youI never wanted you to see
The darkest part of me
I knew you'd run away
I waited, but you never came
So afraid to be alone
I tried to let you go
Still I find you
Lost inside the darkest part of me
