

Somebody Said A Prayer

Billy Ray Cyrus

Just a single mom raisin' up the kids
Little Tommy's seven now and her daughter Justine just turned ten
Pinchin every cent laughin' and lovin' and content
You would never think a couple years ago she almost let her job, her kids, her mind,

Her life go up in smoke right there on the edge right before the fall
Somebody said a prayer

Somebody had some faith

Somebody finally hit their knees and asked for help for heavens sake

Somebody finally found someone who really cares

Somebody said a prayer
He was seventeen and his heart was broke.

The middle of the night, a bottle full of pills, and a goodbye note

Sittin' on his bed, but then he bowed his head.

Now I see him every week and every now and then he talks about that night.

And the peace that came over him talk about a sign.

Can I get an amen well there were tears on his face he said look what happened lord
Somebody said a prayer

Somebody had some faith

Somebody finally hit their knees and asked for help for heavens sake

Somebody finally found someone who really cares

Somebody said a prayer
Somebody said a prayer

Somebody had some faith

Somebody finally hit their knees and asked for help for heavens sake

Somebody finally found someone who really cares

Somebody said a prayer
Can I get an amen oh

Can I get an amen oh

Somebody somebody said a prayer

Somebody said a prayer

Somebody somebody said a prayer

Songwriters

CRAIG WISEMAN, NEIL THRASHER
Published by

Lyrics Â© BMG RIGHTS MANAGEMENT US, LLC
Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941.

Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>