

Hurt

Gabrielle Aplin

I shiver when you touch my skin, and I know without asking
You're right there where you wanna be
You're right here in front of me And you talk about travelling
Where we'll go and where we've been
But the scene you're building out
All I see is it coming down Oh, you are so good, I know that this is gonna hurt
I don't think we should, you know it's never gonna work
There's things that you can't see
You're way too close to me
This one is gonna hurt Oh-oh-oh-oh, this one is gonna hurt
Oh-oh-oh-oh You feel cold in the summer sun,
Leaves fall and the winter comes
Why does it take us by surprise?
It's been the story all our lives, oh And boy, you know, the less you learn
What goes unsaid, doesn't go unheard
If only I could help us both
Come round and wait from where we're going You are so good, I know that this is gonna hurt, I
I don't think we should, you know it's never gonna work
There's things that you can't see
You're way too close to me
This one is gonna hurt Oh-oh-oh-oh, this one is gonna hurt
Oh-oh-oh-oh You are so good, I know that this is gonna hurt,
I don't think we should, you know it's never gonna work, oh You are so good, I know that this is gonna hurt,
I don't think we should, you know it's never gonna work
There's things that you can't see
You're way too close to me
This one is gonna hurt Oh-oh-oh-oh, this one is gonna hurt
Oh-oh-oh-oh, this one is gonna hurt
