All At War

Downhere

I'm learning to stand
The more that I fall down
It's the law of inversion
And it's all turned aroundAnd I'm staggered by
The clash inside my soul
So purposed for good
But inclined for evilIt's justice and mercy, the old dichotomies
All along the front lines of my heart in both doubt and belief
The sinner, and the saint, the old archenemies
All at war in me
All at war in meI was born depraved
But created for the Divine
With death in my bones
In my heart I turned aliveI'd love for Eden
But I'd kill for Rome
I'm native in a land
That is not my homeIt's justice and mercy, the old dichotomies
All along the front line of my heart in both doubt and belief
The sinner, and the saint, the old archenemies
All at war in me
All at war in meYou are the beginning
And You are the end
Into Your great reversal
I am born againA beautiful redemption,
You leverage even sin,
And me, Your final victory
I know You'll win(Into light from the shadows
Into light from the grave
Into love
Into loveIt's justice and mercy, the old dichotomies
All along the front lines of my heart in both doubt and belief
The sinner, and the saint, the old archenemies,
All at war in me
All at war in me

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/