

You Run

Submersed

Heavy thoughts seem to slip away
When you were here on my darkest days I trust in you
Many debts I cannot repay
Too many clouds in my sky today I trust in you
As if it really matters you run When I reach out for a hand to
Pull me through the storm
Pull me through the norm I reach for you Broken glass as the evening fades
Take another drink as the evening fades I trust in you
Stealing rays from the sun so bright
Join a million people in the church tonight I trust in you
As if it really matters you run When I reach out for a hand to
Pull me through the storm
Pull me through the norm I reach for you
In my mind I reach for you Spread inside my mind
You'll find that you really matter
What's right in this life
We must try as if it really matters I reach out for a hand to
Pull me through the storm
Pull me through the norm I reach out for a hand to
Pull me through the storm
Pull me through the norm When I reach, I reach, I reach
When I reach, I reach, I reach
I reach for you
