Spilled Perfume

Pam Tillis

I ain't even gonna ask you
I can read you like a book
Girl, if I ever saw one that's An I can't believe I did that lookYou look like something that the cat drug in
So I won't kick you while you're down
Just let me tell you friend to friend
'Bout a block I've been aroundDid you really think last night would last forever?
Did you really think that guy hung the moon?
Right now you hate yourself 'cause you knew better
But there's no use crying over spilled perfumeThere's a big difference between lonely
And lonely for way too long
And I knew when he made his move
You weren't feeling all that strongSo I bit my tongue 'cause I saw it coming
As you danced so close to him
It's two steps forward and three steps back
When a heart is on the mendDid you really think last night would last forever?
Did you really think that guy hung the moon?
Right now you hate yourself 'cause you knew better
But there's no use crying over spilled perfumeYou fell in a moment of weakness
Well, you just got to pull yourself back up
Dry your morning after tears
'Cause what's done is doneDid you really think last night would last forever?
Did you really think that guy hung the moon?
Right now you hate yourself 'cause you knew better
But there's no use crying over spilled perfumeNo use crying over
No use crying over
No use crying over spilled perfume

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/