Spilled Perfume

Pam Tillis

I ain't even gonna ask you I can read you like a book Girl, if I ever saw one that's

An I can't believe I did that lookYou look like something that the cat drug in So I won't kick you while you're down

Just let me tell you friend to friend

'Bout a block I've been aroundDid you really think last night would last forever?

Did you really think that guy hung the moon?

Right now you hate yourself 'cause you knew better But there's no use crying over spilled perfumeThere's a big difference between lonely

And lonely for way too long

And I knew when he made his move

You weren't feeling all that strongSo I bit my tongue 'cause I saw it coming As you danced so close to him

It's two steps forward and three steps back

When a heart is on the mendDid you really think last night would last forever?

Did you really think that guy hung the moon?

Right now you hate yourself 'cause you knew better

But there's no use crying over spilled perfumeYou fell in a moment of weakness Well, you just got to pull yourself back up

Dry your morning after tears

'Cause what's done is doneDid you really think last night would last forever?

Did you really think that guy hung the moon?

Right now you hate yourself 'cause you knew better

But there's no use crying over spilled perfumeNo use crying over

No use crying over

No use crying over spilled perfume

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/