Dare To Believe

Colton Dixon

I was just a kid when I heard about the stories
Of the prophets, teachers
Priests, kings, and queens
Of water turned to wine
How You brought the dead to life
They were more than words
They were truth to me

We get older, life gets harder
We grow farther away
And lose the faith we fought so hard to keep

I will dare to believe
That You are the Savior
Living in me
And I know You always will be
The God of the impossible
The God of every miracle
Here for the world to see
I dare to believe

If you were just some carpenter from nowhere
An ordinary man with ordinary news
Then we would not be here
Still claiming You all these years
We believe the stories
Because they're true

Some might call me crazy
But I'm no fool

I will dare to believe
That You are the Savior
Living in me
And I know You always will be
The God of the impossible
The God of every miracle
Here for the world to see
I dare to believe

You are the Son of God
You lived and died for us
You're here and You are still alive
You are the Son of God
You lived and died for us
You're here and You are still alive

I will dare to believe
That You are the Savior
Living in me
And I know You always will be
The God of the impossible
Is here for the world to see
I will dare to believe

You are the Son of God
You lived and died for us
(I will dare to believe)
You are the Son of God
You lived and died for us

Dare to believe
