When I'm Not Looking, You're Not There

Stephin Merritt

When I was young I saw a square
A hole where something should be there
I knew all this was just a cage
This knowledge has not changed with age
I knew then and I know it still Im being held against my will
Inside this stupid hologram
So I won't find out who I amI really just pretend to care
When I'm not looking you're not thereAnd you and your disgusting lies
Like gravity and compromise
And flesh and life and love and time
That's your opinion it's not mine
I live among the robots now
But I'll find out my way out somehow
So save your big reality
For when you're so-called touching meYou're only colors in thin air
When you're not looking you're not there
