

World Without a Sun

Oh, Sleeper

I fear a world without the sunThe day the sun never rose, cold swept the world

And now stone and ice, the children she forms

I lift my eyes to take in horizons of skinThe cold is creeping to meet with wrath above

And you'll soon be fearing to see what it kept us away fromI fear a world without the sun

I fear a world without the sun but never who wished it goneThe trees are dead yet alive more than ever

Growing flesh where once were leaves

They stretch instead of tower, like bone wrapped giants they reach

But nothing stirs like the fire's thunderThe cold is creeping to meet with wrath above

And you'll soon be fearing to see what it kept us away fromI fear a world without the sun

I fear a world without the sun but never who wished it goneAnd now the ground pulses constricting for birth
