Let You Go

Sunnyboys

I've been through a lot of scenes with you
I've seen through a lot of your schemes too
It don't seem right for you to go
And love somebody elseWhen I was down and frightened of the world
You were always there, to make me feel alright
But who has planned my escape
Through the back door of your house
It was not meWell I've made up my mind
I've made up my mind now
I've made up my mind to let you goWhen I fit all the broken pieces together
I realise we didn't suit each other
But it still don't seem right for you to go
And to love somebody elseWhen I look, and see you are not there
My heart drops, further and further down my sleeve
But who has planned my escape
Through the back door of your house
It was not meWell I've made up my mind
I've made up my mind now
I've made up my mind to let you go
Well I've made up my mind
I've made up my mind now
I've made up my mind to let you go
Well I've made up my mind
I've made up my mind now
I've made up my mind to let you go
