

Lay It Down

Jars of Clay

Oh, we'll never be short on people
And we'll never be short on trouble
It's a well worn path
So how on earth can we feel alone Why carry on our own what's common to all men
Why drag your bag of bones to hell and back again
Why carry on our own what's common to all men
Look around, lay it down Oh, we'll never be short on good news
And somebody to tell our story to
And we'll never be short on redemption
And light for the dark Why carry on our own what's common to all men
Why drag your bag of bones to hell and back again
Why carry on our own what's common to all men
Look around, lay it down Why carry on our own what's common to all men
Look around Why carry on our own what's common to all men
Why drag your bag of bones to hell and back again
Why carry on our own what's common to all men
Look around, lay it down Will you look around, lay it down
