Insects

Debmaster

Hindered by innocence, the timid will turn to play
Swallowed in her smile
Unaware, turning ears deaf to painWilling and weak are one in the same
Watch as your rapid seasons start to change
All of the seasons that fought you
All of the reasons that got you here in the first placeLove in time grows stagnant
The innocence we have lost
New grains of time will not rewindInjuries strain from her perfect art of guile
Swindling her space
In despair shed a tear, mock sincerityCondescending a hearts can display
Cracks as your zone if comfort starts to fray
Humbling to sit back and watch through
All of the actions that got you clearly no mercyLove in time grows stagnant
The innocence we have lost
New grains of time will not rewindThrough patience I'm viewing from outside
Such a shame your pride left you
In a state of pure denialLove in time grows stagnant
The innocence we have lost
New grains of time will not rewind
