

Weight of the World

Overkill

You feel the weight of the world
And your back's are not that strong
Can you carry a tune
Or is the weighting forever so long? Do ya freeze in the heat?
Wear sunglasses at night?
And are you beating my meat
To the sound of the same old drum? It's time to shed your skin
And with it promises
And we bite down hard and feel
The weight of the world Yeah, there's a song in them words
Though they leak through your teeth
You're shakin' hands with the right
While your cutting my throat with the left Yeah, it's the weight of the world
When ya lay down with dogs
After humpin' your leg
They just leave you with flees and just split It's time to shed your skin
And with it promises
And we bite down hard and feel The more I know, the less I understand
Try not to think, out loud
The more I know, more I know, more I know
More I feel the weight of the world It's the weight of the world
When ya lay down with dogs
All the names have been changed
But the story is always the same It's time to shed your skin
And with it promises
And we bite down hard and feel The more I know, the less I understand
Try not to think, out loud
The more I know, more I know, more I know
More I feel the weight of the world
Weight of the world

Songwriters

Verni Carlo; Robert Joseph Ellsworth Published by

BLOOD AND IRON MUSIC CO.; UNIVERSAL MUSIC-CAREERS Song Discussions is protected by U.S.
Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>