

The Minute I Met You

New Found Glory

I would like to start off by saying I had everything to do with it,
You may think that I lie real well, you can tell that I'm holding it in,

Nevermind the time or the spinning of your head,
I could tell my life was changing,
Since the minute I met you,

And if I stop,
Ever thinking of you,
I'd probably choke on the words I never said,
And if I stop,
Ever thinking of you,
I'd bury my heart and fall back in my bed,

And what a sight that'll be yeah,
I will never tell you this,
But I'm scared of falling apart,
It may seem like I'm holding it together but the weather is making it hard,

Never mind the time or the spinning of your head,
I could tell my life was changing,
Since the minute I met you,

And if I stop,
Ever thinking of you,
I'd probably choke on the words I never said,
And if I stop,
Ever thinking of you,
I'd bury my heart and fall back in my bed,

And what a sight that'll be,
All my friends surrounding me,
Just cause you've made it this far,
Doesn't mean you've made it,

And if I stop,
Ever thinking of you, I'd probably choke on the words I never said,
And if I stop,
Ever thinking of you,

I'd bury my heart and fall back in my bed,

And what a sight that'll be,
And what a sight that'll be yeah

Lyrics powered by lyrics.tancode.com

written by PUNDIK, JORDAN I. / GRUSHKA, IAN R. / GILBERT, CHAD EVERETT / BOLOOKI, CYRUS WILLIAM / KLEIN, STEPHEN LEE

Lyrics Â© Universal Music Publishing Group, Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>