

In My Eyes You're A Giant

Sonata Arctica

In my eyes you're a giant,
the keeper of all the keys, different but compliant a God for someone like me Learned to read what you're thinking... suffering every moment left alone... tamed the beast deep within me... sleep in peace friend, cause I am guarding...
When I'm not howling at the bright new moon the burning flame within, my own kin, and every night I hear something out there calling me reminding me, friend, to know, that I'm not your child...
I follow when you lead, and do what you command, but there is something that is out of my hand it's my own nature, appetite, I am a creature of the night I am howling at the bright new moon...
Bright new moon, brings the light in my life one more day and you must let me go...
Here I am howling at the bright new moon the burning flame within, my own kin, and every night I heard something out here calling me reminding me, friend, to know, I'm not your child...
I am howling out there at the bright new burning flame, within my heart every night I hear something out there, telling me I'm not your child.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>