The Traveler

Sarah Sparks

Oh the lonely road Iâ€™m on
Nobody here could know
Thereâ€™s no one who knows my sorrows or bears my heavy load
Thereâ€™s no one that understands my pain
Or who I am
Itâ€™s a lonely road Iâ€™m on
Itâ€™s a lonely road Iâ€™m on

Oh the lonely road youâ€™re on
Was it to calvary
Theyâ€™re in the weight of all the world
Youâ€™re the ones who made you bleed
You think you are misunderstood
Who lonelier than me
Who died for those that strike him
Who bled to make them free

I am the God-Man
This road was mine
Your pain was in my life sanctified
Live what you are living so that you may be a live
I am the God-Man this road was mine
I am the God-Man this road was mine

You think I donâ€™t understand
The heart that I have made
That saw that rest within my hands
That with my blood was claimed
But I know every trial and I know every ache
For those who would despise me
I have suffered every blame

I am the God-Man
This road was mine
Your pain was in my life sanctified
Live what you are living so that you may be alive
I am the God-Man this road was mine

I am the God-Man this road was mine

I am the God-Man this road was mine
(Repeated)

I am the God-Man
This road was mine
Your pain was in my life sanctified
Live what you are living so that you may be alive
I am the God-man this road was mine
I am the God-man this road was mine
