

Memento

Wyoming

it's all wrong, it's all right are my thoughts in sleepless nights it's all right, it's all wrong were my thoughts when you were goneand all those memories replay
they say that you won't pardon my mistakesall those memories are running and running and running and running through my head, through my headoh I might change the frequency that everything's attuned to my world and I might change the frequency that you see why I'm taciturn it might stop the melodies that often leave me deaf and disturbed
and I might change the frequency that everything's attuned to my worldand all and all those memories replay, they say that you won't pardon my mistakesand all those melodies replay in my head I steal away and run, I run, I runoh I might change the frequency that everything's attuned to my world
and I might change the frequency
oh I might change the frequency that everything's attuned to my worldbut I run, but I run, still I run
