Tumbling Down

Allison Moorer

What happened to the world we painted?
The masterpiece of me and you
Our work of art has all but faded
Nothing's here except the bluesLove's crumbling
Love's tumbling down
Love's crumbling
Love's tumbling downIt was a stroke of genius
Yeah, just as pretty as you please
But all that's left between us
Is hanging on what used to beLove's crumbling
Love's tumbling down
Love's crumbling
Love's tumbling downLooking at it from a distance
I still can't believe my eyes
It's sad to have to witness
What we made on all those nights
Crumbling down, tumbling downLove's crumbling
Love's tumbling down
Love's crumbling
Love's tumbling downLove's crumbling
Love's tumbling down, oh baby
Love's crumbling
Love's tumbling down
