Blame It All On Me

Sound The Alarm

A reckless mind
Could ruin this whole day
She'll destroy every inch of light
And feed off of my painA second chance
Is it even worth my time?
I'll call it quits till something fits
Lay this guilt in my mindIf someone ripped the sky in half
Would you blame it all on me?
It's raining down, God help us now
Lighting strikes every treeThe trains I've missed
I wonder what could have been
Fighting hard to escape myself
But past mistakes will step inWrite me off
Lay me down to sleep
Stop regretting tired lies
You leave that to meIf someone ripped the sky in half
Would you blame it all on me?
It's raining down, God help us now
Lighting strikes every treeWith any luck you'll be with me
When the car loses control
Now, that you're gone, my life's been fixed
I think I saved the worldIf someone ripped the sky in half
Would you blame it all on me?
It's raining down, God help us now
Lighting strikes every treeWith any luck you'll be with me
When the car loses control
Now, that you're gone, my life's been fixed
I think I saved the world