Travelling Light

The Fireman

There are places I don't remember
There are times and days, they mean nothin' to me
I've been looking through some of them old pictures
They don't serve to jog my memoryI'm not wakin' in the morning, starin' at the walls these days
I'm not getting out the boxes, spread out all over the floor
I've been looking through some of them old pictures
Those faces they mean nothin' to me no moreYou travel light
You travel light
Everythin' I've done
You say, you can justify, you travel lightI can't pick them out, I can't put them in these sad old bags
Some things you have to lose along the way
Times are hard, I'll only pick them out, wish I was going back
Times are good, you'll be glad you ran awayYou travel light
You travel light
Everythin' I've done
You say, you can justify, you travel lightDo you remember, how much you loved me?
You say, you have no room in that thick old hair
Well, it comes with the hurt and the guilt, and the memories
If I had to take them with me I would never get from my bedThere's a crack in the roof where the rain pours through
That's the place you always decide to sit
Yeah, I know, I'm there for hours, the water running down my face
Do you really think you keep it all that well hid?No, but I travel light
You don't travel light
Everythin' I've done
It's just a lie, you don't travel lightI'm travelling light
No, you don't travel light
I travel light
No, no, you don't travel light
I'm travelling light
You don't travel light
