

Time to Die

Jon Oliva's Pain

It's time to die all your pictures and all your pieces two months to write all your alibis to your pretense i hear a voice
"am i following in your footsteps?" i clear the noise with the following of your footsteps oh i recall
all the promises that you emptied
clipped off, pull the branches in consumed, with the overhead more room for everyone relief, for they came in good news

good news for everyone
good news for everyone
we tuned, on the able heads to the news, of the up ahead no use for everyone listen up for what the channel said your pain
your pain is everyones
you're running off again
