Nobody's Angel

Jerry Leger

Nobody's Angel
You had her when she was still in her prime
Now she's lost that sparkle and smile
That made her so fine
She's pulling favors in the parking lot motel
She's nobody's angel
Nobody's little girl
You robbed her, cheated her
Said you'd give her everything
Promised to buy her the prettiest diamond ring
Believed every word your lying tongue could tell
She's nobody's angel
Nobody's little girl
Sometimes you take
Sometimes you break
Sometimes you're just wasting away
Shrugging it off but keeping your hand upon the gun
Nobody ever seems to see your face
And your reputation should never find you
A warm place to stay
But she'll always let you in
'Cause she lives in your fractured world
She's nobody's angel
Nobody's little girl
Last time I saw her
She looked like she had aged twenty years
Couldn't seem to care less
For finding a new way to feel
Spoke like a speeding car
On the highway about to swirl
She's nobody's angel
Nobody's little girl
She was once my angel
My darling little girl
