Flags And Footprints

Threshold

I'm looking for a reason why I see no shooting stars tonight
Just a sign that everything's alright to quiet me, to quiet me
Maybe all I hoped was wrong maybe all I dreamed is gone
Maybe I was stupid all along for trying it, for trying itBut I believed in what you said
I trusted in your summer
Now the leaves are turning red
And soon they'll all be coming down
How can I go on
If hope is what keeps me alive
And I'm so uncertainIt seems the more I look for you the more I fail to find the truth
Maybe I'm affecting what I view with heavy veils and fairytales
Maybe my research was sound but maybe I just fooled around
All flags and footprints but nothing further down to find you, to find youBut I believed in what you said
I trusted in your summer
Now the leaves are turning red
And soon they'll all be coming down
How can I go on
If hope is what keeps me alive
And I'm so uncertainI guess I learned the hard way or did I waste my time
I never met you half way but I crossed that lineAnd I believed in what you said
I trusted in your summer
Now the leaves are turning red
And soon they'll all be coming down
How can I go on
If hope is what keeps me alive
Maybe someday I'll know why
