A Little Less

Jill Andrews

A little road somewhere
A little less of my heart
Floats like a feather and sticks like a dart
A little less of my heart

The moon is a shiner
And I am a lover
Bites like a razor when we're apart
A little less of my heart

The night is a black crow
And I am a sparrow
Sing to my lover and dive through the dark
With a little less of my heart

A little less of my heart

You won't find me out tonight
With a pair of seeing eyes
And there's always lots of trouble
Trouble here that I can find

And I'll find it
(I will wait 'til the morning comes)
And I'll find it here
(and I'll find my way in the morning sun)
And I'll find it
(I will wait 'til the morning comes)
And I'll find it here
(and I'll find my way in the morning sun)

I will wait 'til the morning comes
I will find my way in the morning sun
I will wait 'til the morning comes
I will find my way in the morning sun
I'll find it, and I'll find it here
