How Many Hearts

Travis

How many hearts does it take to break
All of the bonds that young lovers make?
Hoping to find the next golden egg
One that will shine through the rest of timeHow many roads must there need to be?
Hoping inside, you could mean to me
Open your mouth, build your sermon there
Give me more time, do the best I canHopelessly hoping our plan will wake up
Hoping it all will be fine
Holding our candles through weather or not
Love be the enemy now, now for the rest of timeA long time ago there was only me
And there was no rings eternally
Won't be the same
No one there to blame, no longer careAnd you are, and you are a new ageHopelessly hoping our plan will wake up
Hoping it all will be fine
Holding our candles through weather or not
Love be the enemy now, now for the rest of timeAnd you are, and you are a new age

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/