Come Sundown

Kris Kristofferson

I heard the front door closing softly
As I wakened from my sleep
With the last touch of her kips, Lord
Like a whisper on my cheek
And I cursed the sun for risin'
For the worst, Lord, was yet to come
'Cause this morning, she's just leavin'
But, come sundown, she'll be gone
See that lipstick on the pillow
That I placed beneath her head
And the soft sheets still feel warm, Lord
Where she lay upon my bed
And it hurts to know it's over
'Cause the hurt, Lord, has just begun
'Cause this morning, she's just leavin'
But, come sundown, she'll be gone
Yeah, come sundown, she'll be gone
