All The Midnights In The World

Prince

Because I turned my eye toward you
Because I seek your hand
Every other woman envies you
And me, every other man
A massive circle of jealousy
Is coming round again
Those prickly fingered scallywags
That masquerade as friends
Make a promise this very night
That they will no longer pose
A threat to either one of us
Then let the chapter close
For all the midnights in the world
This one will serve us better
If you choose to be my girl
Like Zuzu's petals, a wonderful life
The two of us shall lead
The children of the future've all the Spiritual food they need
The secrets that the ones before
With grace, they've come and shown
Together with love for one another
We shall make them known
Remember the love of happy days
I number the grains of sand
Writing twelve times ever more
If I could be your man
Amethyst and rubies
Crystals and black pearls
I'd trade them all just to spend with you
All the midnights in the world
