

Por Vida

Arduz

So I spilled out my guts to look past my regrets
And I sang to the heavens as I bled from my neck
 I said thanks for your patience god and all your wisdom and strength
I said thanks for the suffering as I sang for the dead
They lived for the living god you ignored every word
 We'll all grow old and die as our pleas go unheard
 So I walked through the valley and I tried to forget
 How I loved every moment of the life that I left
 We were all cheated my brothers
 We were all lied to my friends
 No one can save us from god not even death
So cast off what is mortal and discard all your dreams
They all turn to shit in the end and you wake up in hell
 Why fear the unknown the presents as painful
 As being ignored
