

Temporary

Hangnail

You've changed so much in so little time What happened to your passion and drive for living life and living it out Has this all change from subtle doubt Skeptical, you play the skeptics role excusing blame, denying guilt You fame yourself with apostasy and then redeem yourself with mediocrity It's only temporary, it seems like Until the blindness is your sight When you think of what you used to have, do you believe that you never had anything, nothing absolute Not even God, not even truth And I would reach out to you but that's the last thing you want me to do Sleep tight as you're drifting away to wake up one morning and find that all of the feeling is gone

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>