

Innocence Lost

Astorian Stigmata

You were born at night
At the end of the world
The Angels all came down
To touch your face
And crowd into the streets
But you were too delicate
And you lost your innocence
And I can't forget

Though the lights seem to go out every night
And I don't mind what you choose to believe
But keep it to yourself
If it won't make no one else happy

Your not the only one who knows
You got your heart so broken open
Time to let it show
That I am not the only one who knows...

Here all the angels sit and cry
For a life that's slipped away
Cause they've got no place else to go
And no one left to save
So they let their feet touch the ground

Your the only one who knows
You got your heart so broken
Just in time to let it show
That I am not the only one who knows...

Here all the angels sit and cry
For a life that's slipped away
Cause they've got no place else to go
And no one left to save
So they let their feet touch the ground

Your the only one who knows
You got your heart so broken
Just in time to let it show

That I am not the only one who knows...

That lost innocence becomes the light
That you can't turn off
That keeps you awake
When you try to sleep
So I let go
And you still take

You were born at night
At the end of the world
The Angels all came down
To touch your face
And crowd into the streets
But you gave away your innocence
And stumbled your way home
So I let go
And you still take

I am your light
I am your light
I let go
You still take

---

Lyrics submitted by brooke colson.

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnllyrics.com/>