Into the Unknown

Postcards From Mars

Falling without a warning
Bursting sand in a trench on a dune

Falling when it's unforeseen
Like the sound of a popping balloon

Before you know the ice has grown
Every step is a risk on it's own
Every crack is a chill to the bone
When you sink you'll be sinking alone into the unknown

Father, where are you, father?
Striking sticks to the bricks of the room

Maybe I don't deserve this but give me sparks to dispel all the gloom

Before you know
Your clothes outgrown
Every step is a step on your own
Every crack is a chill to the bone
When you sink you'll be sinking alone into the unknown

Before it leaves me numb
Let's build a bridge to calm
Try to outrun and let us overcome

Lyrics Submitted by Postcards From Mars

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/