No Good In Goodbye

Jason Michael Carroll

I knew you wouldn't answer after the things we said that night
You were crying, I grabbed the keys and said goodbye
Well, hang on please, don't hang up, let me talk to our machine
I've had all this time to think about what you mean to meAnd I know you said it's over
But my heart's telling me that that ain't right
And I know it can't be over
'Cause I still wake up reaching for you in the night
It took leaving for me to realize there's no good in goodbyeWell, I'm listening to the talking, should I pick up the phone?
And lay my pride aside and say come home
I've played that moment over, time and time again
When giving up seemed easier than just giving inAnd I know you said it's over
But my heart's telling me that that ain't right
And I know it can't be over
'Cause I still wake up reaching for you in the night
It took leaving for me to realize there's no good in goodbyeI'll try to call you one more time
Oh, baby, if you'd just call me one more time
And I'll tell you, I'll tell youI know you said it's over
But my heart's telling me that that ain't right
And I know it can't be over
'Cause I still wake up reaching for you in the night
It took leaving for me to realize there's no good, there's no good
No good, there's no good in goodbyeThere's no good in goodbye
No good in goodbye
