Good Morning Fire Eater

Copeland

Wake up your eyes and darling your smile
The day is done and everyone's gone now
You can taste every fire and hold every song
The world has moved, be quick enough to not miss it now
So wake up your eyes and darling your smileI'm afraid you've stopped to lick your wounds
Dear, dear, no
I'm afraid you've stopped to lick your woundsWake up your eyes, darling it's time
To hope that for whatever they'll dry out
It never takes long and everything's gone
I only know her beauty won't fade out
Back on your side, darling you lied to yourselfI'm afraid you've stopped to lick your wounds
Dear, dear, no
I'm afraid you've stopped to lick your woundsI'm afraid you've stopped to lick your wounds
Dear, dear, no
I'm afraid you've stopped to lick your wounds'Cause it's no good if you can have it all
They're giving back what they never stole in the first part
And it always goes when you need it the most
The kindest love is still bleeding from the last shot'Cause it's no good if you can have it all
They're giving back what they never stole in the first part
And it always goes when you need it the most
The kindest love is still bleeding from the last shot'Cause it's no good if you can have it all
They're giving back what they never stole in the first part
And it always goes when you need it the most
The kindest love is still bleeding from the last shot'Cause it's no good if you can have it all
They're giving back what they never stole in the first part
And it always goes when you need it the most
The kindest love is still bleeding from the last shot

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/