The Marble In Your Eye

Sarah Harmer

You said, "Everything sounds right"
I say, 'everything is beautiful
I'll get to see you tonight
And wake up to your smile"You said, "Everything sounds right"
And it made me more in love with you
And I think that we just might
Watch this grow awhileAnd in your deepest sighs that say
'Words cannot do justice
To the way I feel inside'
A golden light is coming through
The marble in your eyeIn the morning sun will rise
The first light hits a disco ball
And we'll try to tell the time
By the scattered patterns on the wallAnd I've never been so scared
I never cared that it could get away
Are we gonna do this, baby?
Say "Everything sounds right' again okay?"And in your deepest sighs that say
'Words cannot do justice
To the way I feel inside'
A golden light is coming through
The marble in your eye
Let it make its way around the room
And we'll try to tell the time
