

The Day I Let Go

Stone Sour

What a waste of life this is
Every altercation I permit
Is like a quiet sigh from a man
Resigned to a place that was never his And the hours are long
Even in a world where I belong
Every second stays, every minute
Counts against my sentence I fall, I had to let you go What I tried to accomplish died
Every offer of faith I had to fight
And a dream unfolds, the moon is cold
Because the sun left early And the days go by Even when my conscience just wont try
Every week decays, every mouth is rotten
I am forgotten I fall, I had to let you go
I fall, my mind is all I know
I fall, the table turns to dust
I fall, today, I let go of my trust What a waste of a time I am
Every ounce of life is just dead flesh
I cant forget but then again
You cant let me remember When I try to speak
Every word I say comes out so bleak
I dont want this, I dont want you
But I don't want anyone
I dont want anyone I fall, I had to let you go
I fall, my mind is all I know
I fall, the table turns to dust
I fall, today, I let go of my trust I let go of my trust
I let go of my trust
I let go of my trust
I let go of my trust
(Let go of my trust)
I let go of my trust
(Of my trust) I let go of my trust
(Of my trust)
I let go of my trust
(Of my trust)
I let go of my trust
(Of my trust)
I let go of my trust
(Of my trust)
I let go of my trust I let go of my trust
(Of my trust)

I let go of my trust
I let go of my trust
(Let go of my trust)
