Sirens

Elefant

Everywhere I walk, I feel the danger
Everyone around is getting stranger
Sunglasses and vodka in the morning
Sirens never came to me as warning
Walking on the beach is so romantic
Kissing in the sand is so fantastic
Flying down the highways like you're wanted
Something in her touch has left me haunted
It's a game that we play
And I don't know if I could live without you
The first time was the worst
Now I thirst everything about you
Yeah, [Incomprehensible]
Come and tell me what you're really after

An angel told me that the end was soon
Wasted nights flirting with disaster
Give me what I need to get me through
It's a game that we play
And I don't know if I could live without you
The last time was the worst
Now I'm cursed sitting here without you
Without you, without you, without you
Come and tell me what you're really after
An angel told me that the end was soon
Wasted nights flirting with disaster
Give me what I need to get me through
And you're so bad so bad, no, no, no
And you're so bad so bad, oh no, no, no
