

Green-Line Delayed

Jawbox

NOTE: This song is actually Ballast, not Green-Line Delayed blood marks the road when an animal left its life behind in a red stain that the rain will wash away fall of night foretold the sky coloured like a bruise and I think of ones I used to know and of paths they had to choose because we are born
and will remain
forever trapped inside our heads no human chords are struck without a resonance in other lives but the echoes we hold on to seem as arbitrary as the time
