

Can't Let Go of Her Now

Justin Currie

She's made her mark on me,
She's scarred my memory
Made shallow wounds in the depth of night
Give up my liberty,
That's what she wants from me
Well, I guess I'd care but it feels alright

And if I lose my grip I won't make it anyhow
So I can't let go of her now

She makes my common sense,
Come out like self-defense
She breaks my patience like a match
And when I snap in half
She'll be the first to laugh
If I'm a base hit, she's a catch

And if I lose my grip I won't make it anyhow
So I can't let go of her now

Just don't tell her I would die if I let her slip away
Let her think I'm resigned
Like those drying clothes just hang onto the line
(Repeats "can't let go" in the background)

She's made her mark on me,
Those little lines you can see
They're written through me like a poem
She makes a mockery of all I hold life to be
But in the end I come back home

And if I lose my grip I won't make it anyhow
So I can't let go of her now

And not to lose my grip that's my vow
