Just Remember

Sister Hazel

A crooked chimney standing in the middle of a field

Once surrounded by the walls of work

By laughter and by love, the sound of children playing

And the sound of people saying, I love you, yeah youA crooked tree stands naked near the center of the field

Barely rooted in the browns and grays of Earth

That once was green, a place long since forgotten

In a world of yesterday except by me, yeah meAnd oh, whose plan was this anyway

And I never thought he would want it to be that wayIt once was beautiful, right here

It still is beautiful, in here

You once were beautiful, I hear

I hear it can be beautiful, just rememberA twisted little image in your perfect little world

Of the chapter where it'd all begun

About a song already sung, burnt around the edges

Nearly faded, nearly gone, even you, yeah youA shiny building standing in the center of today

Where indifferent people go to work

Go about their pay, knowing they've forgotten

In a most convenient way, yesterday awayAnd oh, whose plan was this anyway

And I never thought he would want it to be that wayIt once was beautiful, right here

It still is beautiful, in here

You once were beautiful, I hear

I hear it can be beautiful, just rememberAnd oh, whose plan was this anyway And I never thought he would want it to be that wayIt once was beautiful, right here

It still is beautiful, in here

You once were beautiful, I hear

I hear it can be beautiful, just rememberIt once was beautiful, right here

It still is beautiful, in here

You once were beautiful, I hear

I hear it can be beautiful, just remember, oh yeah
