I Break Horses

Smog

Well, I rode out to the ocean And the water looked like tarnished gold I rode out on a broken horse Who told me she'd never felt so old She asked me if I'd feed her And ride her now and thenNo no no, no no no, no no no I break horses I don't tend to them I break horsesThey seem to come to me Asking to be broken They seem to run to me I break horsesDoesn't take me long Just a few well-placed words And their wandering hearts are gone At first her warmth felt good between my legs Living breathing heart-beating flesh But soon that warmth turned to an itchTurned to a scratch Turned to a gash I break horses I don't tend to themTonight I'm swimming to my favorite island And I don't want to see you swimming behind Tonight I'm swimming to my favorite island And I don't want to see you swimming behindNo, I break horses
