Along The Wall

Leigh Nash

If you ask me to come, I'll say, "Go"
If you say you love me, I'll say, "Sure, if you say so"
Whatever you tell me, I won't believe you
And if you try, try to make meOoh, I would like to know
Which one is willing to lose?All along the wall between us
I see a teacher there for us
I look at the moon and see right through it
I lean on the wall there for usThere is a door where I am standing
Without a key, without a clue
Without you, I am wondering
Wondering about youIt's a cold cold night, are you gonna call me?
Tell me about how I go on and on
About you being like it used to be
How it's all about meOoh, I would like to know
Who is the wounded one?
Which one will make the move?
Which one is willing to lose?All along the wall between us
I see a teacher there for us
I look at the moon and see right through it
I lean on the wall there for usYou're my Heaven and my Hell
And my feet, the only sound
You're the shadow in my mind
I am hollow all the timeAll along the wall between us
I see a teacher there for us
I look at the moon and see right through it
I lean on the wall between usI see a teacher there for us
I look at the moon and see right through it
I lean on the wall there for us
