Wild Land

Steignyr

Where they are hidden Where none needs the law
They live in the forest's secret like the wild beast in our hearts

They run through the forest
For their land
For their freedom

They fight for the eternal dignity
In wild land is how they live

Riding horses through the mountains Can you hear the call?
Feel the wind from the north star
Is how you live in wild land

They cry to the sky
For their lives
For their freedom

When you try to live by yourself in the land of anyone they impede the wild life but remember, the world is still our.

Protect the sky, the nature and their hearts your home is where you live don't be a slave
live free, make your wild land

They rise their arms
For their land
For their freedom.
