Paper Plane

The Ultimate Bearhug

Paper plane flew threw the sky
To the hands of my lover from I
I did hope these sweet words would win
But now hopes paper thinBroken apart, my porcelain heart
Youve scattered each piece on the floor
If you would just glue the pieces brand new
Maybe we could find love once morePaper weight, the letters Ive saved
Now theyre just weighing me down, oh dear
Ill paper bag the memories weve had
And bury them far from hereHeart of glass, you shattered so fast
We were so careless then
But if you could sew together this hole,
In my heart, well find love again(Instrumental/hummed verse)Paper heart was white from the start
Weve stained it like burgundy wine
But love is a taste that gets better with age
I know well find love this time
