You!

Keith Green

You, who made the whole world with Your hand
Walked along this land, humbled as a man
You came down and, and You changing the water to wine
Gave Your greatest sign by changing lives like mineHow did You know, I'd eventually go
And take You for the Lord of my life?
I'm so glad forYou, how did You stand the shame
When they laughed at Your name
Your Father felt such pain
Well how'd You take itBut You
Spoke not a word to defend
'Cause they'd see in the end
When You rose againWhenever You spoke
All the Demons awoke
And would tremble with fear at Your sightAnd You, loving a world filled with hate
And though the hour is late
You still choose to wait
But it won't be long untilYou, take the whole world by surprise
They won't believe their eyes
When You come through the skiesWhen You return
All the foolish will learn
That they waited too long to decideDon't wait too long to decide
Don't wait too long to decide
Don't wait too long to decide
Don't wait too long to decide
