

A New Dawn

Chastisement

A humming noise from within
The masks fall off their faces
Like thousands and thousands before, they know this is the core I will lead you to a new dawn, know my world of pain
I will take away your freedom
No, change your way of interpreting life
You'll see the maladjusted children Parse, dissect my brain, let the sane stay chained
Listen to this cloud of mine and I'll open your well shut eyes Remoulded, megalomania invalidates remorse
Earth scarred by the progress, selfishness Take a look in the mirror
Behold the dark reflection of your suppressed desires
A world where you can be whole
Where you can find peace I will lead you to a new dawn
Know my world of pain, I will take away your freedom
No, change your way of interpreting life
You'll see the maladjusted children
