

Hope Is An Open Window

Diana Ross

Are we not more than hunger and music?
Are we not more than harlequins and horns?
Are we not more than color and drums?
Are we not more than anger and dance? Give me courage
So I can spread it over my face and mouth
Give me courage, give me courage
Give me courage, give me courage I walk these city streets, see the people there
Look into the eyes of quiet despair
And the faces tell a story that words never can
And it falls to everyone of us to try and understand Out of kindness
One act of grace
Makes the world we walk
A better place Hope is an open window, love an open door
To reach out for each other, is what we came here for
Through an open window, we can see the way
If we hold on to each other, every day We build walls of suspicion with bars of fears
Tell ourselves, we'll be safe in here
I know more brings us together, than keeps us apart
First we got to tear down these walls, within our hearts We might be strangers
We can be friends
You and I we both need
To let somebody in Hope is an open window, love an open door
To reach out for each other, is what we came here for
Through an open window, we can see the way
If we hold on to each other, every day Give me courage
So I can spread over my face and mouth
We are secret rivers with shaking hips and crests
Come awake in our thunder
So that our eyes can see behind trees Give me courage
So I can spread over my face and mouth
Give me courage, give me courage
Give me courage Hope is an open window, love's an open door
To reach out for each other, is what we came here for
Through an open window, we can see the way
If we hold on to each other, every day Hope is an open window, love an open door
Gotta be there for each other, is what we sent here for
Through an open window, we can find a way
To love one another, everyday Hope is an open window, love an open door
