

Strange Ones

Supergrass

He called, he called
I ran, I even steal
I can't fight you or lie you
Come back, come back
I, I can't see you
I can't see you There's a place where the strange ones go
Where nobody here could know
They look down from the clouds and smile at everyone down below
There's a place where the strange ones go
Where nobody here could know
They look down from the underground at everyone down below Well I would cry for you, I would die for you
Everybody needs a home
Well are you strange enough? Are you deranged enough?
Every fucker needs a home There's a place where the strange ones go
Where nobody here could know
They look down from the clouds and smile at everyone down below
There's a place where the strange ones go
Where nobody here could know
They look down from the underground at everyone down below Well, I would feel for you, I would steal for you
Everybody needs a home
Well, are you strange enough? Are you deranged enough?
Every fucker needs a home There's a place where the strange ones go
Where nobody here could know
They look down from the clouds and smile at everyone down below
There's a place where the strange ones go
Where nobody here could know
They look down from the underground at everyone down below There's a place where the strange ones go
Where nobody here could know
They look down from the clouds and smile at everyone down below
There's a place where the strange ones go
Where nobody here could know
They look down from the underground at everyone down below

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>