Left Your Mark

Champion

And this is where it ends after all this time, our time, your promises, you put in your time and now you're moving on.
So we'll sever our ties and move our directions.
So this is where it ends and I know I can't abandon the past and pretend that it never existed because it meant the world to me, and it means the world to me.I always thought our hopes and aspirations were considered one and the same.
I believe in the word integrity,
I believed in your integrity but, today I won't let it hold me back.
Your mark still burns so deep.Today I'm moving on, your attitude you can keep.
And you say my feelings will pass in the days to come but, they mean the world to me, and this means the world to me.
You had the choice of leaving, and yeah, you left your mark.You don't understand integrity, you'll never understand integrity.
So just turn your back 'cause I'm doing the same.
We can both walk away from here with no more games.
It's so bad that it comes to this but, what did you expect?
All of my faith, my trust, my respect,
my time that I put into you, it's all through.
