

On the Edge

Tokio Hotel

It's getting light outside
She is still there but no one cares
They sang her, 'Happy Birthday' yesterday without her
Do you want to see yourself flying through the night? This gift is what you need
You're gonna be alright
Eyes close and fall Her first time on the edge
The scars will stay forever
Side to side with death
A moment that feels better Darkness and light
Are blinding her sight
She's not coming back It's getting light outside
She cannot sleep 'cause time stands still
Someone's hand is touching her, she has no will Each time when it hurts, she just feels so alone
She doesn't care at all
Her memories are long gone
Eyes close and fall And closer to the edge
The scars will stay forever
Side to side with death
This time feels even better Darkness and light
Are blinding her sight
She's not coming back She shuts the door
She longs for more and more and more
She shuts the door
She longs for more and more and more
Just once more Everyone is watching
Her arms are so sore
But she doesn't care anymore And falling from the edge
The scars will stay forever
Side to side with death
This last time even better Darkness and light
Are blinding her sight
She's not coming back, not coming back The sky is casting over
Her last wish stays unsaid

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>